

Expand your reach

Lifesize® Live Stream

How do you bring everyone in your organization together to make sure your message is heard?

Company-wide meetings, executive updates and training sessions are critical communication events for any organization. They help connect people and improve productivity by ensuring everyone is focused on the priorities of the business. But the logistics of getting everyone together can be complex and costly, especially if people are in different offices across multiple locations. Enter Lifesize Live Stream — presentations come alive and employees are engaged when speakers can be seen on video, share their screens and answer real-time questions. Take your event beyond the office by live streaming to tens, hundreds or even thousands of people. Now that's powerful.

With Lifesize Live Stream, IT pros have more ways to empower their organizations to connect and collaborate effectively — all through one provider and one easy-to-use, secure solution. Lifesize Live Stream provides unmatched flexibility, broad accessibility and exceptional simplicity to foster more effective communication throughout your organization.
